KWEILIN TAKEN BY CANTONESE; AIRPLANES USED

Capital Of Kwangsi Province Captured By General Li

FACHOW ALSO FALLS

Peking Government Sending Supplies To Losing Faction

A Canton telegram received here last night stated that the troops of General Li Lieh-chun, Chief of the General Staff of the Cantonese Army, has captured Kweilin, the Capital of Kwangsi, after serious fighting. A squadron of aeroplanes aided effectively in the operations.

The same messages state that General Wei Pang-ping and General Hsiung Lia marched into Wuchow, the captured city, amidst great pomp on Monday. They are now advancing towards Sunchow in three directions.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, June 28.—It is reported that Fachow has been recaptured from the Kwangsi forces. In doing so the Cantonese made prisoners of three battalions of their opponents.

The Cantonese have thus practically succeeded in driving the Kwangsi forces from Kwangtung territory in the Kochow district, and frustrated their attempt to force an outlet to the sea at Pakhoi.

Canton, June 28.—The American Consul-General, Mr. L. A. Bergholz, upon his return from furlough in the United States, paid his first official call on Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Hongkong, June 29.—It is reported here that the Kwangsi forces have captured Yangshan and Kooking and that heavy fighting has occurred at Yamchow, Limchow and Kochow, while the Cantonese commander, General Chen Chiung-ming is directing an attack against Shumchow where the Kwangsi commander-in-chief has his headquarters.

One million and a quarter rounds of ammunition and about half a million dollars in cash destined for the Kwangsi militarists are now on a Japanese steamer, the Ogawa Maru, lying off Woosung. The vessel came in last Saturday with instructions from the Peking Government, it is understood, to take on more munitions from the Kiangnan Arsenal.

The news of the attempt of the Central Government to aid the Kwangsi faction occasioned a storm of protests yesterday from organisations in Shanghai. The Cantonese community especially are indignant over the action and the Chinese military authorities, the Japanese Consulate, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and Customs administration have been requested to seize the cargo.

A delegation representing the Cantonese Guild, the Canton Merchants' Association, the Commercial Federation, the Sincere Company and the Wing On Company interviewed the Defense Commissioner, Major General Ho Fung-lin, Foreign Commissioner C. F. Hsu and the Customs Superintendent Yao Wen-fu, urging that steps be taken to have the munition and money brought ashore pending an inquiry.

The consignment, according to the delegation, is destined for Lu Yung-ting, Tuchun of Kwangsi and is covered by a permit issued by the Ministry of War. It will be used by Lu in his campaign against the Kwangtung forces, which have been victorious so far.

All the three Chinese officials have consented to take up the matter with the Peking Government. The delegation set forth the claim that the shipment of the munitions and money would prolong the internal warfare in the two provinces.

The delegation consisted of Dr. Fred C. Tong, Mr. Chun Bing-him, and Lau King-siu and a number of other Cantonese residents.

The Ogawa came from Pukow under the command of Captain Mam, and is bound for Haiphoong, Indo-China.

The Students' Union yesterday sent a message to Commissioner Ho Fung-lin, telling him either to "seize the munition or take the consequences."

JAPANESE AMAH KILLED BOLTON BABY, VERDICT

Nurse Wilfully Murdered Daughter Of Shanghai Physician

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—The inquest on the baby daughter of Dr. N. Hay Bolton of Shanghai, who was found drowned in a stream at Chipping Norton, has resulted in a verdict of "wilful murder" against the Japanese nurse, Otoki Sakabi, who was found hiding in a field near where the child's body was found. The child's grandmother, who was in Shanghai when the nurse was engaged, said she was quite satisfactory although rather excitable. The child was very fond of the nurse, she said.

Details concerning the tragedy told of in the foregoing dispatch have not yet been received in Shanghai. The infant daughter of Doctor Bolton, who is believed to have been murdered, was the younger of two children of the family, the elder being a boy about three years old.

The little girl was born in Shanghai last August. Mrs. Bolton with the two children and Doctor Bolton's mother, who spent about a year and a half in China, sailed for England on November 10 last on the steamer Kashgar. The Japanese nurse referred to, who was employed in Shanghai before their departure, accompanied them.

Doctor Bolton followed his family three months later, leaving on February 12 on the C.P.O.S. line, Empress of Russia.

City Government Moves To New Home; 'Opening' In July

All of the various branches of the municipal government, with the exception of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps and a number of individual offices have now been housed in the new municipal building and while the work of making the structure ready for general occupancy is still proceeding it is nearing completion and it was stated yesterday that the public opening of the new building probably will be held in the latter part of July.

The secretariat, general administrative offices and the council room are located on the first floor of the central structure, the entrance of which is on Kiangse Road. The various revenue offices are on the ground floor. The offices of the Public Works Department have been moved from The Bund to the northern portion of the new building, the entrance of which is on Hankow Road. The Finance Department and the Municipal Investment Bank are quartered in the new building with the entrance at the corner of Honan and Hankow Roads.

The new headquarters of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps will be on Foochow Road adjoining the Central police building and with an entrance from Foochow Road, near Kiangse Road, the electricity department is located.

RENEWAL OF JAP PACT IS FAVORED BY EMPIRE HEADS

Lloyd George Initiates Discussion At Conference

CHANGES, ISSUE

How To Avoid Friction With U.S. Main Problem, Apparently

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—Discussion of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance was initiated by Mr. Lloyd George at yesterday's Imperial Conference and was resumed today.

Contrary to some reports it is understood that there is a consensus of opinion in favor of renewal, and it is believed that the Indian objection to the Treaty on the ground that one of the raisons d'etre of it was the possibility of trouble in India will be easily overcome.

The views expressed apparently center around the course to be pursued in order to maintain and strengthen friendship with America and any necessary amendments to bring the Alliance into conformity with the League of Nations Covenant.

London, June 28.—Mr. Balfour, Lord Lee and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans attended the Imperial Conference for the first time yesterday, when the subject of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance was again discussed.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian asserts that Canada is strongly opposed to a renewal of the Alliance on the ground that it has served its purpose and is no longer in harmony with the new international spirit. Canada, he states, fears that its renewal would lead to an armaments competition with the United States, imposing a fresh burden on Canada's limited military and naval defense resources.

Greeks And Turks In Hot Fighting

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, June 28.—It appears that the report of the Turkish capture of Ismidt was at least premature. The Kemalists attacked the port while the Greeks were withdrawing their troops preparatory to relieving them. The Greeks re-landed some of their troops and restored the situation.

A severe struggle is proceeding in Angora between the Nationalists and the agents of the Committee of Union and Progress, acting on the instigation of Enver Pasha and supported by the Bolshevists.

The Nationalists are anxious to arrive at a satisfactory agreement with the Allies with a view to securing the withdrawal of the Greeks from Smyrna, in order to enable them to pay attention to the menace of the Bolshevists, who have strongly concentrated round Kars and are threatening Erzerum.

Takes Job As Steward To Help Break Strike

THE marine strike failed to stop the steamship Aquitania on her recent voyage from England to New York. REV. HOOKER, WELL KNOWN MISSION WORKER, DROWNS

Sampan Upsets At Ichang, Throwing Whole Family Into Water

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, June 29.—As a sampan, containing the Rev. Mr. Hooker (of the American Bible Society stationed at Chengtu), and his family, together with the Rev. Mr. Squire (of the China Inland Mission, Ichang) was proceeding to a steamer yesterday, it upset accidentally. Mr. Hooker is missing, but all the others were saved.

Word of the Rev. Mr. W. C. Hooker's death at Ichang was received here yesterday by the Rev. W. M. Cameron, of the American Bible Society. Mrs. Hooker telegraphing that her husband had been drowned when a native boat capsized. From the wording of the message it is evident that Mrs. Hooker, and probably her two sons, were also in the boat. All except Mr. Hooker were saved, she stated.

The Rev. Mr. Hooker had been in China for nearly thirty years, coming first to this country in the Winter of 1892. He was at that time connected with the China Inland Mission but later resigned and became associated with the American Bible Society, working in the West China field. He had been with the American Bible Society for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and was just about to leave on his second home furlough when the tragedy occurred. He and his family were booked to sail for America on the steamer Nile on July 18. Mrs. Hooker will sail on that date, taking their two sons to school in the States.

Mr. Hooker's work in recent years has been principally in and about Chungking but during the last year, while Mr. T. Torrance was on furlough, he has been covering both the Chungking and Chengtu fields.

Commissioner I. Gabaldon, the Philippines' representative in Congress, will accompany Mr. Quezon.

General Wood and ex-Governor Forbes have returned from South Luzon and will leave next week for Cebu and Iloilo. They state that the infant mortality rate is alarmingly high in the provinces which they have inspected.

Irish Factionists May Hold Meeting On July 4

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—Mr. Eammon de Valera has replied to the Prime Minister's request for a conference with a view to bringing about peace in Ireland, declaring that he is consulting with such principal representatives of the Irish nation as are available.

He emphasises his earnest desire to effect a lasting Anglo-Irish peace, but adds that he sees no means of achieving it if Ireland's essential unity is denied.

Mr. de Valera promises to reply more fully after discussion with the Unionists and has written to Sir James Craig, the Prime Minister of the Northern Cabinet, and other leading Unionists, inviting them to meet him at the Mansion House in Dublin on July 4.

London, June 28.—The Ulster Cabinet has accepted Mr. Lloyd George's invitation to an Irish Conference.

The Southern Parliament was opened in Dublin today. Only 16 Senators and four members of the House of Commons were present out of totals of 64 and 128 members respectively.

The Parliament adjourned till July 13, so as to enable members to take the oath, failing which it will be dissolved and a Crown Colony Government established.

DISMISSED POLICE PLANNING ACTION AGAINST COUNCIL

Eight Constables Discharged Following Refusal Of Resignations; Others Disaffected

Eight municipal police constables who had refused duty after resignations they submitted had been rejected were dismissed from the department yesterday in formal orders that were issued and following on this action the men have announced that they will retain counsel and seek redress in legal action.

Related to the cases of the eight men who were dismissed another larger group of foreign municipal police constables, numbering about twenty, is disaffected. The members of this second group have united their interests, but, following a meeting, have decided not to take any action at present.

The eight men who were dismissed presented a list of grievances to the acting commissioner of police about a week ago. Salaries, promotion, penalties and general conditions all entered into protests that they made and in voicing these they let it be known that they were ready to resign. The men were asked to defer further action until the matter might be brought before the Watch Committee, but the following morning an order went to the various stations to which the men are attached stating that those who desired to leave the force might present their resignations. All of them resigned.

On Tuesday the eight were received in a body by the Commissioner of Police and were told that their resignations would not be accepted. They were notified yesterday that recommendation would be made for their dismissal and the formal order followed.

Members of the second disaffected group have said that action on their part is being deferred particularly to see if a rumored raise in pay is forthcoming.

Strange Are The Sights On Shanghai's Dah Maloo

By Elsie McCormick

THERE are certain streets in the great cities of the world that are known from the pampas plains of Argentine to the northermost fjord of Scandinavia. The western half of humanity knows at least by hearsay Champs Elysee in Paris, where the fashion of a continent parades under the trees or rides down the long avenue; of the Strand in London; and of Broadway in New York, which changes in the course of its seventeen miles from the center of the financial district to the thread on which are strung the brilliant lights of the Great White Way, ending at last as a quiet suburban street lined by tiny cottages and pocket-handerchief lawns.

Less known in America but equally famous in Europe is the Rue Canniebiere of Marseilles, a street where Egyptian elbows Greek, and where Arabs in flowing robes share cafe space with the carefully tailored French.

But somehow the Maloo of Shanghai has never figured in Romantic literature. Though we do not mean that it should rank in prominence with the streets previously mentioned, Nanking Road nevertheless presents a cycle of changing aspects through the twenty-four hours that makes it unique among the highways of the world.

The street itself is decidedly picturesque to anyone whom familiarity has not made blind. The fluttering banners covered with Chinese characters, the gold dragons that coil over the carved woodwork on many of the shops, the graceful towers of the two large Chinese department stores, and the strange medley of Orient and Occident apparent in architecture as well as in commercial life lose their bizarre quality when seen every day en route to the office.

Nanking Road shows its first signs of intensive activity a little before 9:00 a.m. in the winter or 8:00 in the summer when the foreign population begins its daily trek toward typewriters and ledgers. Junior clerks and steno-typists occupy the trams, those a trifle higher on the payroll ride in private ricshas, and the taipans honk officeward in motor-cars. The more important the taipan, the later the hour for his morning ride along Nanking Road.

NOW THE LADIES

After the commercial force has disappeared from the Maloo, feminine shoppers occupy the vacated trams and the brokers' traps begin their daily steeplechase from bank to bank. Sidewalks become occupied largely by coolies with chitbooks and strolling Chinese of nebulous occupations.

At noon, the office workers hurtle homeward through a tangle of ricshas, racing motor-cars, crowded trams, and clubs waved by Sikh policemen, repeating the traffic marathon at the end of the day. After the invaders from Bubbling Well, Hongkew, and the French Concession have left the Maloo and a few stray electric lights begin to illuminate the dusk, the tired Chinese business men brushes away the cares of commerce in preparation for his evening session of sight-seeing. As a window-shopper, the average Chinese is ahead of any cash-girl who ever coveted satin lingerie. He derives more amusement from looking at high-heeled foreign shoes or a man in a store repairing a watch than foreigners do from the Zeigfeld Follies.

THE NIGHT BABIES

For hours after the Chinese gentleman on the tobacco sign has begun to smoke his electrical cigarette, his countrymen stroll up and down the Maloo, getting economical entertainment from the window-displays and walking naively hand in hand under the bright lights. Hand holding is evidently not popular in China except among those of a homogeneous sex. Accompanying the parties are the usual quota of babies, evidently being broken in for careers as night-watchmen. The city is famous for its night-blooming infants who stagger home long after midnight and who are able to keep awake as long as any rounder that ever rounded out an evening.

In the meanwhile, junior clerks, typists and taipans have rolled along Nanking Road in evening dress on their way to the theater, or Carlton. They roll home later over a wide range of hours, depending on the nature of the party. After the foreign theater crowds have disappeared into the suburbs, Chinese theater parties are disgorged from a score of amusement palaces and conveyed home in ricshas, motor cars, or the one-horse carriages so popular with the Chinese residents.

About two o'clock in the morning, the traffic is confined to motor-cars taking late dancers from the cafes, stray ricsha men looking avidly for customers, a

COAL STRIKE OVER; PROFIT POOL DEMAND ABANDONED

Owners To Receive £17 For Each £100 In Wages

PEACE FOR YEAR

Work To Resume On July 4—Men Escape Pre-War Status

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—It is officially stated that the coal strike has been settled.

Mr. Lloyd George announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Miners' Executive had agreed to recommend the terms of the agreement that had been reached to the men with a view to the resumption of work on July 4.

He said that the demand for a profits' pool had been definitely abandoned. The main feature of the permanent agreement was the establishment of a new system of payment to the wage-earner, namely profit-sharing with the employer, and he believed that this would be the largest example of profit-sharing in any country.

Wages, the Prime Minister went on, would be the first charge on the industry. A standard wage twenty percent above the pre-war level would be fixed, and after the wage and other costs had been satisfied the owners would receive £17 for every £100 paid in wages.

If there were any further proceeds to be divided, the workman would receive £83 and the owner £17. The settlement would last until September 30, 1922 and he believed that it would result in unexempled harmony in the coal industry.

GREAT DIFFICULTIES

The operation of this arrangement would at the outset create great difficulties in certain important districts. The exporting district, which was very hard hit during the last six months, deserved special consideration.

If economic conditions were allowed full play before the industry had time to recover, the wages of the South Wales miners would be reduced nine shillings and sixpence daily.

The owners, supported by the miners, had pressed the Government to assist in re-starting these pits, and had convinced the Government that the resumption of work would be very partial without assistance. It was arranged that there would be an immediate reduction of two shillings per shift, and an additional sixpence in August and September respectively. Beyond that period the permanent agreement would operate, and the subsidy of £10,000,000, which the Government had decided to grant, would not be concerned with it.

In districts where Government aid was necessary, or where wages were reduced by the settlement, the owners agreed to forego profits for three months under the profit-sharing scheme. Finally a National Board would be established, consisting of equal numbers of owners and miners. District boards would also be formed to which disputes would be referred.

PROMISING EXPERIMENT

Mr. Lloyd George appealed that nothing should be said that would increase the task of the Miners' Executive. The settlement was a great and promising experiment. No such principles had ever before been applied to a great industry on such a scale, and he expressed the hope that it would create new relations between Capital and Labor.

The Prime Minister emphasised the alarming reduction in output of this basic industry, rendering essential the introduction of a new spirit which would revive the export of coal and enable British industries to produce goods and compete in the markets of the world.

Under the co-partnership arrangement, wages and profits would depend on the improvement of the industry. Hence, though the conflict had been very costly and destructive, if the new system were worked in a spirit of goodwill, it would amply repay the nation for all the damage caused and would open a new era of peace for all industries.

Mr. Asquith said that the House would take a grave responsibility if it refused the Government authority to grant the £10,000,000 subsidy.

Mr. Clynes said he urgently hoped that the miners would agree to the recommendation of their leaders and accept the settlement, which, be considered, had a most important bearing on future relations between employers and employed.

Mr. Clynes appealed to the whole trade union movement to learn a lesson of the folly of their methods in this dispute and the obsolete character of their machinery, and he urged all trade unionists to have greater faith in their leaders.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain said that the vote of the £10,000,000 would be submitted to the House on July 1. Several members said that speeches in the discussion of the vote might irritate the miners and prevent the resumption of work on July 4.

It was therefore consequently arranged that the vote would not be discussed on July 1 but would be discussed at its report stage on July 7.

Note: Work stopped in all the coal pits on April 1, so that the strike has lasted almost three months.

OPPOSE WAGE CUTS

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 29.—The ballot of the engineering employes on the employers' offer for reduced wages has shown a substantial majority against acceptance.

The gas-workers, to the number of 90,000, have agreed to a reduction in their wages of 6s. 9d. per week.

MILLS RESUME

London, June 28.—Many cotton mills in East Lancashire resumed work yesterday. At Accrington 2,000 weavers re-started, and at Burnley and Darwen 40 and 60 percent respectively of the mills are working.

Japs To Establish Formosa Schools

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 25.—"The Government-General has decided to establish several additional middle and higher grade schools in Formosa," Mr. Shimomura, Chief of the General Affairs Section in the Government-General, who is in Tokio on official business, told a representative of the Hochi.

"One of the administrative difficulties in the island is the recurrence of floods which annually cause railway losses to the amount of Y.1,000,000. During the rainy season serious damage was done to the railway leading to the Arisan mountain and the majority of the timber mills in the districts have been compelled to close.

"The output of camphor shows a gradual decrease, and exports are waning. The future prospects, however, are not unfavorable in view of the scarcity of the world supply of this product.

"The recent slump in sugar quotations and the decrease of the public demand for the product is a serious blow to the industry in the island.

"The subjugation of the native 'outlaws' is making satisfactory progress. The introduction of police aeroplanes has had reassuring results. It is regrettable however, that some police officers on the frontier are still subject to attack by the aborigines."

Soochow University Middle School To Graduate 13 Today

The second middle school of the Soochow University System, located at 20 Quinsan Road, Shanghai will have its closing exercises this afternoon at three o'clock.

The school occupies jointly with the Comparative Law School of China the buildings of the old Anglo Chinese College, and is really the continuation of the preparatory school of that institution, the college department having been removed to Soochow and merged with the University there in 1911.

The school has had a prosperous and successful year and is closing with the largest enrollment in its history.

WEST SZECHUEN QUIET, BUT PEACE PROVES COSTLY

Robbers Keep In Background —When People Fix Militarists

(China Press Correspondence)

Chengtu, June 12.—Things in Szechuen seem stabilised again. If one leaves the robbers out of account, the military factions have patched up their differences and the western half of this province at least, is fairly quiet.

Until when? the cynic asks. The Chinese say until the ninth moon. There is a feeling that there will be a burst up then. They say Liu-Hsiang is enlisting many fresh troops at Chungking. He must have a purpose in view. Others are doing the same. Bye and bye there is bound to be a clash and another struggle for supreme power.

Liu Yu-kiu in Chengtu is lying low. He is an adept at this from long practice.

Whatever be Liu Yu-kiu's ambitions, he generally manages to keep the districts under his control comparatively free from robbers. To ninety-five percent of the people this is the main thing. Let who will have power, only give them quiet and security.

Of course all the military know how to charge for their services and General Liu does not underrate his own on occasions. In these "Republican" times such periodical feedings or levies are expected and the people grin and bear it.

Perhaps the most hopeful thing is that Liu Yu-kiu and Liu-Hsiang both hail from the same city of Taih and there is said to be a friendly pact between them to stand or fall together. So whoever may try to vault into power has their combined strength to reckon with. This being so we are less likely to see another upheaval soon. Which is what everybody wants. In other words: "anything for a quiet life."

NEW CHURCH OPENED

The American Episcopal Methodists have opened their new G. $15,000 church. And they have had a great time, between dedication and opening services. The old one was built twenty-six years ago after the "riots in 1895," by the late lamented Rev. Olin Cady. It seated nearly four hundred. This one seats fifteen hundred. On the opening Sunday it was full. It looks like as if it should have been planned to hold three thousand instead.

Another fault one might find with it is the "Eurasian" style of its roof. It is neither Chinese nor American, like the Union University buildings, but has a monorel shelf appearance to one who is fond of purity and loves reality in both.

The new Canadian G. $20,000 church is not finished. It should be by the autumn. As only fools and children criticise half completed work it is too early yet to say anything but it promises to look better than the American one.

Robbers continue to haunt the big north road. Why General Liu can't put them down no one knows. This is all new territory to him and the elephant is apparently afraid to clean out these rats. Once he finds his bearings he is sure to do something. One effect of this condition is that foreigners are advised that no protection can be given, i.e. guaranteed to any going to Pehluting mountain this year. Which means: when no protection is needed, it can be given; but when it is needed, it cannot!

INLAND MISSION

Mr. D. E. Hoste, the Chief Director of the China Inland Mission, has been on a visit to Chengtu. A number of pressing matters required decision and some time ago the C.I.M. men in this district invited him to come west to confer on these matters. He seems to have done them all good for they are unanimous in their praise of his kindliness and the wisdom of his decisions.

There is one thing in this Mission which, at least, excels. An old "worker" cannot be rooted out of a station where he has spent the most of his missionary years by the notes of a few newcomers whose mere caprice is to show their power. If he wishes to continue in his "own" station he can do so until compulsory circumstances of health or age demand otherwise. In China this is often a good thing. An elderly missionary has double the influence of a younger colleague and when it is exerted in a place where he is well known it is fourfold that of a service.

Canadians To Observe Dominion Day With Picnic At Jessfield

The Canadian Association of China will hold a Dominion Day picnic at Jessfield Park tomorrow afternoon. The festivities are scheduled to start at 5:30 o'clock and all members of the Association are particularly requested to attend. Further particulars may be obtained by calling the secretary-treasurer, Mr. D. C. MacMinn, at Central 182.

Wedding

TATUM-HALL

On Tuesday, June 28, at 3 p.m. Miss E. E. Mona Hall of Chungking, West China, was united in marriage to the Rev. E. F. Tatum of Yangchow.

The ceremony took place at the Union Church and was performed by Dr. MacGillivray with Mr. Gardner Tewksbury at the organ. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Viloudaki. Mr. and Mrs. Tatum are well-known missionaries, and a large number of friends are interested in their marriage.

Before her marriage Mrs. Tatum was connected with the work of the China Inland Mission and afterwards with that of the Canadian Methodist Mission. Mr. Tatum has been associated with the Central China Mission of the Southern Baptist Convention first in Shanghai and later in Yangchow.

After the summer on Kuling they will take up their work in Yangchow.

CHARLES J. BONAPARTE

(Reuter's Service)

Baltimore, June 28.—The death is announced here of Mr. Charles Joseph Bonaparte, grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, King of Westphalia, at the age of 70.

Mr. Bonaparte who was a lawyer by profession, was Attorney-General of the United States under President Roosevelt.

LADY CHURCHILL

London, June 29.—Lady Randolph Spencer Churchill is dead following the amputation of her foot, after an accident.

Lady Randolph Churchill was the daughter of the late Mr. Leonard Jerome, of New York. She was married three times, her second husband being Mr. George Cornwallis-West, whom she divorced in 1913, and the third Mr. Montagu Porch. She was formerly proprietor and editor of the Anglo-Saxon Review and was the authoress of several books. During the war she had charge of the hospital ship Maine.

W. H. EMBERLEY

Funeral services for Mr. W. H. Emberley, formerly of Messrs. Mackenzie and Co., took place yesterday at Bubbling Well Cemetery. The mother of the deceased and the two daughters, Mrs. Leitch and Miss Emberley, were the chief mourners. Many friends including representatives of the Lodge Erin and the Police Reserve, of which Mr. Emberley was a member, were present. The Rev. John Darroch conducted the services.

Astor House Waives Damages Won In Suit Against Musician

The re-hearing in the case of the Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., against T. Demensthein, a musician formerly employed in the Astor House orchestra, was concluded on Tuesday, when the Senior Consul's Assessor, Mr. Ivanoff, announced that judgment would be along the same lines as previously given—for the plaintiffs—with the exception that the amount of damages awarded would be $400 instead of $500, with costs. The musician was sued for breach of contract.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl, appearing for the hotels company stated that so long as judgment was entered against the defendant his clients would be satisfied to waive all claim to damages. They did not want the defendant's money but wished merely to teach people that they could not break contracts at will. If reasonable notice had been given there would probably have been no suit at all. The Assessor said that he thanked counsel very much for this expression of plaintiffs' attitude and the defendant added his thanks.

Ataman Semenoff Reaches Grodekovo

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 29.—Ataman Semenoff has arrived at Grodekovo, but how he reached there is still uncertain. The Japanese disclaim complicity in his leaving Vladivostok.

Semenoff's attempt to carry out a coup d'etat at Nikolsk-Ussurissk has been foiled, owing to the Yennisseissk (Siberian) Cossack detachments declaring their loyalty to the temporary Government on their arrival, thus deserting Semenoff.

Mixed Court Jottings

A Chinese who had been previously ordered expelled from the Settlement, and was found to be running an opium den in the Hongkew district was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and re-expulsion, yesterday. Lessees of places at 110 East Seward Road and 1138 Haining Road were fined $10 each for allowing opium smoking on the premises.

The suspect arrested in Wusieh in connection with the recent fight at the New World which resulted in the shooting of a Sikh trooper and a Chinese watchman was discharged yesterday, there being insufficient evidence to hold him.

A mafooo was fined $10 yesterday for furiously riding a pony along Sinza Road, endangering the lives of pedestrians.

A shopkeeper appeared yesterday on the charge of receiving five candy making machines alleged to have been stolen from Mr. E. F. Jovino, of the Purity Candy Co. Mr. H. D. Rodger being engaged in another court, the police asked a remand and requested for counsel that the case be transferred for hearing by the Italian Assessor. Assessor Hutchison stated that if Italian interests were involved the complainant should make the request for the hearing in the proper way through his Consul. Unless this were done the case would be heard by the court then sitting. A remand of one week was ordered.

JAPS TO 'FORGET' SIBERIA, TURN TO CHINA, SIGNS SHOW

May Conclude Some Sort Of Pact With Russia At Peking's Expense

BY JOSEF W. HALL

Events in Siberia are of great import to China, and to those foreign interests in China which are affected by Japan's policy toward this country. There are indications that as the difficulties between the Japanese and the Chita government near solution without war, Japan is preparing to again direct her Asiatic policy, which always means her aggressive policy, chiefly toward China.

China's Foreign Office, operating on what it believes to be modern lines of non-committal, has frittered away the golden opportunity to make friends with Russia at Japan's expense, and it is now quite within the realm of possibility that Russia and Japan will reach some sort of friendly modus vivendi at China's expense.

"China says: 'We are friendly neighbors,' but she keeps the door between our compounds barred," is the way an agent of the Chita government expressed himself to me some time ago. No other act has so convinced the Chita people of the hopelessness of relying upon China, as the latter's establishment of a trade barrier at Manchuli.

"Could we draw freely from China," continued this man, "we would soon be equipped to counterbalance the menace of Japan to her as well as remove it from ourselves.

"In following the blockade policy of Europe even after Europe has determined to abandon this policy China is playing the game of Japan." It may be interpolated here that the individual directly responsible for the blocking of trade at Manchuli is Chang Tso-lin. If he be playing the game of Japan he is likely doing so knowingly and under good pay.

It is significant that following the recent conference on imperial policy in Tokio the tone of Japanese statesmen in regard to China began to harden. Since the boycott it had been the fashion to speak of a "liberal policy" toward China.

Interference in Chinese domestic politics had been decried and loans for the assistance of political cliques had been discouraged. We now hear, on the other hand, an open advocacy of a return to the Terauchi Twenty-one Demand policy, we note that a change entirely uncalled for by domestic politics has been precipitated in the Peking cabinet and rumors of Japanese loans are flying as thickly as ever they did in the loan-boom days of 1919.

The change in the Cabinet was precipitated and engineered by Chang Tso-lin, and he personally visited the capital to precipitate it. If this change be part of the Japanese program, Chang, in playing this card of the Japanese game is also likely doing so knowingly and under good pay. It is possible that the huge sum which the Manchurian Railway turned over to the super-Tuchun "for the purpose of famine relief in whatever way the General might consider most desirable" and which none of the relief bodies have been able to pry out of the Manchurian Overlord, although he once personally promised it to a representative of the United International Famine Relief Committee, was the first installment of this pay.

Rice Dealers To Postpone Strike But Prices Soar

Dealers, At Meeting, Vote To Defer Action Until July 5

At a meeting of representatives of rice dealers yesterday it was voted to postpone the proposed strike until July 5 and signs have begun to appear that the new regulation to license rice shops in the International Settlement will be brought into force on July 1 without any concerted opposition from the Chinese.

Though the situation has taken what appears to be a favorable turn, rice prices have continued to climb and no general movement on the part of dealers to replenish their depleted supplies has been observed. A number of the rice junks that have been arriving here for the past week are reported to have departed without unloading their cargoes. The prices for the best grade of rice went to $11.50 and $12 yesterday.

At yesterday's meeting of the rice men about 100 representatives of 90 shops were present. In response to the request of Yi Kung yu, the chairman of the dealers guild, addresses were made to the gathering by the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and the City Magistrate, both of whom urged the dealers not to strike.

Following a motion made by Huang Kung-yu to postpone the strike until after the end of the Chinese moon, on July 4, a resolution to call the strike on July 5 unless the Municipal Council recede from the position it has taken was adopted unanimously. In connection with this action Magistrate Shen Pao-chang of Nantao issued a proclamation advising rice dealers not to strike and the Magistrate also addressed a request to refrain from striking to the rice guild.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Reuter's has received the following telegram, dated Changsha, June 27, from the Rev. G. G. Warren of the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society, representing the Famine Relief authorities in Hunan:

"The scarcity of rice in Hunan amounts to a famine in certain localities. The probability is that the rice still in the Province would be sufficient if free circulation could be secured, but it is doubtful if that will be possible. The mere mention of famine has caused all stores of rice to be made inviolable, not merely by their owners, but by everybody in the immediate neighborhood.

"The Government neither owns nor has it accurate information concerning stocks, which are not great in any one place, but are fairly widespread.

"The new harvest will begin in say, 20 days' time. Immediate relief is then expected if present conditions continue and the harvest is good. Meanwhile the distress in parts, is severe, especially in the district of Anhua (Center), the west border and part of Liling (East)."

PROF. CHIEN, OF NANKING, DEVISES SILKWORM TEST

Agriculture College Expert Finds Better Way To Fight Disease

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, June 28.—There have been two methods used in testing for the Pebrine disease in silkworm up to this time, the one by the Japanese and the other which is known as the European method. Both have serious drawbacks and it was to overcome these objectional features that Prof. C. L. Chien of the College of Agriculture and Forestry, University of Nanking, recently invented a new egg laying box.

In testing for the Pebrine disease it is necessary to examine every moth after it has laid its eggs. This is done by grinding up the moth in a mortar and then examining the liquid under the microscope. If disease is present the eggs of the moth are thrown away. In the Japanese method, when the moths are ready to lay eggs, metal rings are placed on cardboard sheets and the moths are put inside. After the eggs are laid the moths are placed in paper bags, the bags and the eggs on the card being given corresponding numbers. After testing, the eggs from diseased moths are destroyed.

The two great disadvantages of this method are (1) that the moths are separated from the eggs before examination thus increasing the danger of error in numbering, and (2) the eggs laid on a fixed cardboard paper, must be removed with part of the paper attached with the aid of a knife which not only takes time but also mars the appearance of the card.

In the European method the moths are made to lay their eggs in paper bags. They are kept with the eggs until time of examination. The eggs from diseased moths are then destroyed and the disease free eggs are soaked loose from the paper bags and after drying are placed in small boxes. This has several disadvantages to the Chinese farmer, the chief of which is the fact that they cannot be hatched according to the common method, which is to place the card of eggs next to the human body.

The box invented by Professor Chien is a combination of the above methods. It is round and has a piece of loose paper in the bottom on which the moth lays her eggs. The box has a lid and has holes on the top for ventilation. The moth and eggs are kept together in the box until examination time. The loose paper containing the good eggs is removed and pasted on a cardboard and the diseased eggs are destroyed. The boxes may be used during successive years.

The New Egg Laying Box, then, keeps the good features of the Japanese method in having the eggs on cards. It preserves the good feature of the European Method in keeping eggs and moth together until examination time and does away with the objection of preserving the eggs in boxes instead of on cards.

Such an invention as the egg laying box, even though simple should mean a great deal toward the improvement of sericulture in China. Sample boxes have been sent to many of the Sericulture Experiment Stations in China with a request that they be tried out and the results sent back to the University.

Considerable financial support is given to the Sericultural Department of the University of Nanking by the International Committee for the Improvement of Sericulture and credit is due them for their help in making possible the advance in the work of the Department.

Strange Sights On Shanghai's Maloo

few hawkers with lanterns to light their wares, and an occasional wanderer in a far country who had celebrated not wisely but too well and who leans heavily over the side of the ricsha. By this time the last shops have closed their doors and an hour later the traffic of the Maloo has reached its lowest ebb for the cycle of the day.

The fag-end of the evening-dress brigade passes the vanguard of the bearers who carry produce into the provision markets of the city. Their inevitable "Ai-ho" is spoken under their breath, as if not to awaken the sleeping city and they do not raise their voices until a faint sickly light pales the colors in Wing On's towers.

When the first streaks of dawn illuminate the street, they fall on the patient files of coolies, a few Chinese factory workers returning from night shifts, and an energetic foreign golfer or two determined to make eighteen holes before breakfast.

The Maloo has begun another day.

Russian Opera Co. Opens At Lyceum Tonight In 'Faust'

The Russian Grand Opera Company, which should represent the best talent in music and in song that music-loving Russia may well boast of, opens at the Lyceum theater tonight in the first of a well chosen repertoire of opera.

"Faust" is set for the opener, to be followed tomorrow by Carmen, both of which were long ago translated into the Russian, and are now accepted in the North land as operas standard for the homeland. "La Traviata," "Thais," "Rigoletto," "Eugene Onelen," "Romeo and Juliet," "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "La Boheme" all will be given during the present engagement.

The Russian Grand Opera Company constitutes some 80 artistes, and a special orchestra of 25. They come to Shanghai from a season in Manila which brought out considerable favorable criticism.

A chorus of 28 voices supports the principals. There are two conductors, four tenors, and four baritones, none of whom have ever yet been heard in Shanghai. Mme. Osipova, a soprano with a big European reputation, Mr. Daniloff, tenor and Mr. Borienko, baritone, all well known in Europe, are among the performers.

The company after their Shanghai engagement will play short engagements in Tientsin and Peking and Japan when they will voyage to America for a two years tour.

CAPTAIN DOLLAR DEDICATES NEW 'Y' GIFT TO WUCHANG

Veteran American Shipping Man Publicly Thanked For Generosity

(Staff Correspondence)

Hankow, June 26.—Captain Robert Dollar, the veteran American business man and lumber merchant, returning to Hankow from a visit to the upper Yangtsze gorges in Szechuen province, dedicated the new building of the Wuchang Y.M.C.A. this afternoon in the presence of a representative audience. As donor of the building, Captain Dollar was the recipient of hearty thanks and appreciation from the audience, and especially from the twelve speakers.

In opening the ceremony, Mr. Wei-ling, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Wuchang Association, made a brief address welcoming all those present and the donor of the new edifice, Captain Dollar, particularly. After the singing of the National Anthem and offering of prayer, Dr. Z. T. K. Woo, General Superintendent of the Hanyang Iron and Steel Works, speaking in English, officially thanked Captain Dollar for his generous gift, the fine, modern, commodious building which all rejoice in having.

Then the Captain stood up, and in his usual pleasing manner, expressed his satisfaction at seeing the speedy construction up of the building. Reminding his hearers that his prime purpose in giving the building was to benefit Chinese young men, making them all round good citizens, Captain Dollar emphatically remarked that in all his life he never had made an investment for any purpose unless he believed it would be productive of good. In the case of the Wuchang Y.M.C.A., he expressed confidence that it would prosper under Chinese management.

Capt. Dollar then publicly thanked Dr. Yen Teh-ching, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wuhan Y.M.C.A. who is now in America on government service, Mr. A. M. Guttery and Mr. W. C. Jordan for their good work.

Touching upon his trip to Szechuen, the Captain forcefully impressed on his audience the tremendous possibilities of the upper Yangtsze Valley, which he said no one in the room could possibly imagine. Next the Captain asked all Chinese to take care and make good use of the wonderfully fine heritage they now have in possession.

He especially asked his interpretor to bring this home to his Chinese listeners in clear Chinese. After expressing his deep regret on seeing the destruction of properties by mutiny in Wuchang, for no good purpose, the speaker exclaimed, "This must be remedied and changed." Then he added, "a word to the wise is sufficient."

Churchill Looks Upon Irish Issue As Bar To Peace

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—Speaking at a luncheon given by the English-speaking Union in honor of the delegation from Virginia and Dr. Nicholas Butler, the eminent American educationalist and President of the American Branch of the Association Pour Conciliation Internationale, Mr. Winston Churchill described the Fourth of July 1918 as an epoch-making date, "when not merely a declaration of independence, but a declaration of interdependence was made, marking the end of all possibilities of quarrels between the English-speaking peoples."

One grave impediment to the growing unity of the English-speaking peoples, he said, was the situation in Ireland. We had now reached a point which was full of tragedy but which still showed some hope of a reconciliation of English and Irish interests and sentiments. None could foretell the course of events, but he emphasised that the British people must not merely consider Ireland and Irishmen but very much larger and wider considerations outside the United Kingdom.

The reward of a happy settlement of the present trouble would be reaped across the Atlantic.

Shipping Board Chief For Orient Explains Policies

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 29.—Mr. J. F. Marias, General Agent of the United States Shipping Board for the Orient, in discussing the Board's invasion of Far Eastern waters today stated that the business secured by its ships here was formerly in the hands of German companies and he failed to see why American vessels should not share in this trade.

The idea was that "feeder" ships should build up American trade with far distant countries. It was probable that the Shipping Board would extend its operations later to include coastal feeder services.

Mr. Marias paid a tribute to the skill of the British ship operator. Keen and friendly competition, he said, was good for both nations and he hoped that the British lines would give plenty of healthy competition. It was a mistaken impression that the American Government was competing with privately owned foreign lines. The policy of the Shipping Board was to place the operation of its ships in the hands of American companies which, it was hoped, would eventually buy them.

Russian Tortured By Jap, Harbin Newspaper Says

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, June 28.—The newspaper Rabochii gives an account of the following revolting crime:

On June 14, Russian detectives together with Japanese made searches in the region of First River near the flour mill. They were looking for parties who had murdered a Japanese. About sixty young men were arrested in adjoining houses.

Among those arrested was the seventeen year old Rumiantzev, whose father and mother were also taken by the Japanese and brought to the Japanese military barracks.

The Japanese demanded that Rumiantzev confess, or name the murderers. Rumiantzev maintained his innocence, stating that he knew nothing regarding the murder. Before the eyes of his mother the Japanese began to torture the son, squeezing his head and his arms and his legs with iron bands. The victim lost consciousness three times, but the Japanese revived him and resumed the torture.

Three days afterwards the Japanese again called the mother, and in her presence began torturing the young man, forcing water into the mouth and nose of the victim until he lost his senses. The victim, finally deciding to confess, implored his torturers to kill him, and asked his mother to confirm his confession. The Japanese, however, continued torturing Rumiantzev. They beat him with bamboo sticks, and broke his fingers with instruments of a special kind, all the time flinging epithets and insults at their victim.

At night, Rumiantzev was thrown into a damp cellar, and given only a glass of water with salt.

The Corps of Foreign Consuls was appealed to, but the Consuls were not allowed to visit him, being told that the young man was no longer there.

CARPENTIER'S STAMINA TO GET SEVERE TEST ON SATURDAY IN TITLE BOUT WITH DEMPSEY

Question Of European Champion's Ability To Stand Gaff Will Be Settled; Rickard To Be Honored At Commodore Dinner Tonight

BY CHARLES F. MATHISON

Evidence is not lacking that both Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier are capable of striking a forceful blow with the fist. It is a matter of public belief that when they meet in the ring in Boyle's Thirty Acres on Saturday one and without much doubt both will receive powerful blows. Under the circumstances it becomes of interest to inquire into the probable effect of the blows on the contestants.

In the case of Dempsey it is held that he has brought so many of his bouts to a sudden ending that his opponents have not had a chance to hit him at all.

The record of the world's champion shows that he was knocked out but once, and that Jim Flynn performed the feat in the first round. This happened in 1917 and there was considerable question as to the genuineness of the knockout. However that may be, Dempsey turned the tables a few months later and knocked out Flynn in the first round.

With the exception of a few four round decisions on points against Dempsey in his early days the champion has achieved an unbroken list of victories, chiefly by knockout. He has been hit hard in some of the bouts that went the limit, notably by John Lester Johnson, the negro, who slight disarranged the position of one of Dempsey's ribs during a ten round bout in Harlem. Yet the victim of the punch continued battling gallantly to the limit and received the popular decision on points.

Dempsey also was hit with considerable solidity by Bill Brennan in their recent bout in Madison Square Garden, yet the champion, who bled freely, stuck to the contest and finally triumphed by knocking out Brennan in the twelfth round.

Possibly Carpentier may hit Dempsey harder than Johnson or Brennan did and the champion's powers of resistance be put to a severer test. That, of course, remains to be seen, and the proof can only be furnished by the fight itself.

In considering Carpentier's ability to withstand punishment his work in five classes must be analysed, for he began boxing as a bantam and grew up to be a heavyweight. On the other hand, Dempsey was a heavyweight before he started as a boxer.

FRENCHMAN AS A MIDDLE WEIGHT

Carpentier appears to have withstood the attacks of his opponents in the lighter classes, and not till he reached the middleweight stage of his ring career did he show inability to stay the limit with hard hitters. The knockout of the European middleweight champion by Dixie Kid, an American welter; by Frank Klaus, the American middleweight champion, and by Billy Papke, a rugged American middleweight, seemed to indicate Carpentier was unable to stand the gaff.

In his behalf it is said he was a mere boy and was vanquished by vigorous veterans of the ring. Klaus was 25 and Papke 26 when they defeated Carpentier and according to records Carpentier was 18. Yet, like all inhabitants of Southern Europe, he had developed at an early age. In fact, he was a rather good boxer at 13. However, conceding that the Frenchman was immature, the question at issue is based on his assimilation of punishment since winning the heavyweight championship of Europe.

In truth, the Frenchman has not been punished to any extent, for his opponents, like those of Dempsey, have not lasted long enough to do any damage to Carpentier. His victims since the war have been Dick Smith, a mediocre English heavyweight; Joe Beckett, the overrated champion of England, who was stopped by Frank Moran in jig time, and Battling Levinsky, who was on the down grade when Carpentier stopped him in the third round.

It, therefore, becomes evident that Carpentier has not as yet met a heavy-weight capable of inflicting punishment and until he has finished with Dempsey his powers of resistance will remain an unknown quantity.

It is claimed on behalf of the Frenchman that he has gained surprisingly in strength of body since he recovered from the effects of his service during the war and that he will be able to stand up under hard knocks.

At the same time there is small doubt that Carpentier and his resourceful manager do not expect that Dempsey will be able to land on the Frenchman, and that on the other hand feinting will ob-

New Jersey Judge Refuses Writ To Stop Big Fight

(Reuter's Service)

Trenton, N.J., June 28.—Interviewed regarding the intention of Mr. Clinton Howard, Secretary of the International Reform Bureau, to seek an injunction to prevent the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, on the ground that a prize-fight is not a boxing contest such as the law of New Jersey permits, Governor Edwards said that Mr. Howard would be wasting his time, as the fight was to be conducted strictly according to the law.

The Judge has refused to grant an injunction to stop the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Baer SAYS "BUGS" SAYS:

JUST ANOTHER AUTHENTIC LIE

Arson De Cobra Never Knocked Gink Fowler Colder Than A Miser's Eye

BY 'BUGS' BAER

Dear Sir: Were you more journalist and sportsman and less of biased partisan you would tell the truth about Gink Fowler and my man, Arson de Cobra. This was an elemental conflict in which the primitive passions of gladiators held full sway.

They fell to battle under the unwritten code of Roughtown, "NO BITING EXCEPT IN CLINCHES." Arson won by a tooth.

Yours scientifically,
Dr. C. E. HARRIS,
Woodmen, Colorado.

Dr. Harris is just another of the one-way enthusiasts who can see nothing but their side of the picnic plate. This Arson de Cobra was a Mex who served with Francisco Villa and led the way in attacking menus, wine lists and pastry. He flittered into Roughtown chirping that he was a bad hombre and threatened to shoot the burg loose from its municipal charter. A man who looks for trouble can find it where it isn't. Roughtown tamed Arson, and tamed him pretty. He left town so fast that he passed himself coming in.

EVERY GUN WAS SINGING

When he pulled out his Bowie knife to start one of those Passaic bungalow parties, a dexterous Roughtown waitress put a slab of pie on it. Then things got rougher than a Hungarian wedding reception in Mahony City, Pennsylvania. Bang! Bang! Bang! Every revolver in Roughtown started to sing, and Arson realised that he had mixed too rich a mixture of oil into his conversation.

The big Rochester clothing manufacturers used to crochet a peculiar brand of clothes for the Roughtown men. Every suit had a thousand pockets in it.

And there were two guns in every pocket.

Now you tell one. Anyway, Arson and Gink climbed into the ring ready to die for glory. And to live if necessary. Each man weighed 200 pounds from his bunions to his toupee. There was 400 pounds of gooseflesh in the ring.

It was for France. Allons. Gink loosened one and let it lope from the floor to Arson's bright eyes. Arson fooled the experts by collecting the thump on his chin and then tore off a Grecian toe dance on his nose.

THE DUDE OF ALIBIS

He stayed on the canvas long enough to pay rent. When interviewed on the run he claimed that he was a detective. Also that two counterfieters had set up a plant under the ring and that he went down to the floor to eavesdrop on 'em.

That was probably the dude of alibis. But it went, and Arson was given the keys to the Roughtown River and carte blanche on the flea caravans.

CALIFORNIA NINE IS AGAIN VICTOR OVER DIAMONDS

American Collegians Are 3-0 Winners Over Japan Olympic Team

No hit, no-run pitching by Morrow, the University of California twirler, won the Americans their second game against the Diamond Baseball club, which played here during the Olympic games. The game was played at Osaka last Tuesday. The score was 3 to 0.

The Diamond team, which is ranked as the best team in Japan lost the two games in which they faced the Californians chiefly through the superb pitching of the visiting team. Tuesday's no hit, no run game, however, was the sharpest defeat that the Californians had administered to any team in Japan.

The Californians, immediately after the game, returned to Tokio and Yokohama where they spent a few days in sightseeing before the departure for home on the Siberia Maru. Their baseball tour of Japan was most successful. Only the Keio university bested them at baseball. Twice the Japanese got the long end of the scores, each time due to the visiting men suffering temporary batting slumps in their otherwise heavy hitting tour.

Huron vs. Albany Today; Winner Meeting Shanghai In Game On Fourth Of July

THE same old baseball promise holds good for today: i.e., if it does not rain over night, and the playing field is dried off to permit clean fielding, this afternoon will see a game at the Race Course.

There are no other "ifs" in sight at the present writing. If the ifs mentioned stand, the Huron will meet the Albany nine at 3 o'clock for the first game of a series of three to decide which of the two nines are the better qualified to meet Shanghai in the big game on the Fourth of July. The second and third game of this series will be played tomorrow and Saturday.

Yesterday's game, Shanghai versus the Albany, was called off because the Recreation grounds was closed to play of every sort due to the soft condition of the turf. The afternoon was ideal for baseball, but the field was not. The many fans and fanettes who went out to the park confident that baseball might be enjoyed were keenly disappointed.

Today's game, and the series which it begins will have a great interest for baseball fans in this port, both of the Navy and of the city. The Fourth of July game is the big baseball event of Shanghai. It carries with it a historic cup honor, and a nominal championship. Every Navy team is keen to win the right to contend for an engraved place on the cup, and every Shanghai fan is interested to know just who they will have to beat next Monday for the season's biggest baseball honors.

The Shanghai club will work itself into a game Saturday if possible, as half of a double header with one of the navy teams, and again on Sunday afternoon the locals will be seen in a game. It cannot yet be said which nine will oppose the locals. It will be necessary to decide the Huron-Albany series before either of these teams will enter a game with Shanghai. The team which wins the Huron-Albany series perhaps will not want to meet Shanghai before the Fourth game, though the loser should be willing to fill in the Sunday date.

The Flagship this afternoon will play a purely ship's nine for the first time this season. Until after the Olympic games the Huron played an all-Asiatic fleet team, which was gathered from all over the Far East for those special games. After that first team was broken up by several players returning to their assigned stations, a second fleet team was maintained by drafts from the destroyer flotilla which arrived at a convenient time. But now with the departure of the destroyers and the loss of Heuble and Meade, together with the fact that conditions for the Fourth game call for a purely ship's team, the Huron for the next several games at least will play a flagship team.

The new lineup of the flagship will probably see Weaver pitching, Horner catching, Roberts at first, Larkin or McReynolds at second, King at short, Scymanski at third, and Prehm, Lamke, Johnson and Frank for the outfield. The names all have a familiar sound and even though the fast Heuble and the heavy hitting Meade are unavailable, the Huron still has a strong lineup.

The games today and tomorrow will be called at 3 o'clock. Saturday will probably see a double header with play beginning at 2.

Monsieur Descamps Is Mos' Parteekular

To be manager of the world's heavyweight boxing champion has been the ambition of Francois Descamps since he first laid eyes on Georges Carpentier. While he has been guiding the Frenchman on his climb to fame Descamps has worked and hoped and waited. Now that the coveted title is within reach through one more victory he is what he himself calls "Mos' parteekular."

"Everything mous be parfait," says Francois. "No ting mous go, wat you say, wrong.

"Our Georges," he says, "he is one wat you call, sweet fighter. He mous not get ze inflooenza, eet is bad—pas bon—and so you see we will not let 'im box wen ze weader it is cool.

"If we be mos' parteekular and everything is parfait, den you see, on Joolie the 2 eet ees 'boom, boom' and Jack, he ees gone."

SHIMIDZU OUT OF TENNIS FINAL AT WIMBLEDON

Japanese Star Defeated By Alonzo, Of Spain, Three In Five

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—In the lawn-tennis championship tournament at Wimbledon today in the singles semi-finals, Norton, South Africa, beat Hunter, U.S.A., 6-0, 6-3, 5-7, 5-7, 6-2, and Alonzo, Spain, beat Shimidzu, Japan, 3-6, 7-5 3-6, 6-4, 8-6.

London, June 29.—Wimbledon witnessed a most exciting match between Alonzo and Shimidzu in the semi-final round of the tennis tournament. Alonzo was swift and audacious in his play, but served numerous doubles, while Shimidzu was remorselessly steady and stoical. The match was a matter of touch and go throughout, and Shimidzu was beaten by the barest margin.

Alonzo's intensive play was only resisted by the coolest nerve and the quickest of foot work on the part of his opponent who pursued a "wearing down" game with characteristic skill. Shimidzu displayed great resource in his volleying and utilised his lobs very successfully, but his steadiness was overwhelmed by the Spaniard's bursts of brilliancy.

COLLEGE "Y" CONFERENCE

Delegates from the College Y.M.C.A.'s of Hangchow, Soochow, Ningpo and Shanghai and neighboring cities will assemble today at St. John's University for annual camp and conference.

This is the eighth year that this student conference has been held in this section of China.

Present indications will be 200 delegates from 25 different associations including a number of students from government and private schools. The session will continue until the evening of July 7.

The mornings will be taken up with conferences, Bible classes and addresses, afternoons being given to recreation. This conference is one of the thirteen which will be held in China this year under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A.

CRICKET RESULTS

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—In first class cricket matches concluded today, Essex beat Northamptonshire by an innings and 164 runs; Middlesex beat Lancashire by 172 runs; Surrey beat Yorkshire by 179 runs; Cambridge University beat the M.C.C. by an innings and 91 runs, and Somersetshire beat Warwickshire by seven wickets. The match between Sussex and Hampshire was drawn.

HONG DOUBLES TOURNEY SHOWS 35 TEAMS ENTERED; DRAWING IS ANNOUNCED

First Round Scheduled For July 4 With Second Round By July 8; Pott And Roberts, Last Year's Champs, Not Entered; M. B. K. Pair In

The Fourth of July will see the playing of the first round of one of the most important tennis fixtures in Shanghai, the Hong Doubles championships of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association. Thirty-five hongs are entered with many of Shanghai's strongest tennis players.

The winners of last year's Hong-Doubleas Championships, Messrs. W. S. A. Pott and W. P. Roberts, representing the St. John's University, are not entered in this year's play, but 1919's champions, Messrs. I. Tanaka and Y. Okada, playing for the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha Hong compete again this year.

The second round is scheduled for Friday, July 8; the third round for Tuesday, July 12; the fourth round for Friday, July 15, the semi-final for Tuesday, July 19, with the date for the final round left open for later consideration.

The rules of play for the championship as contained in the score placed circular issued yesterday by Mr. M. B. Brown, Honorary secretary of the association provide that the place of play at which the various Hongs will compete shall be decided upon by the competitors themselves, subject to the approval of the secretary. Should the courts be unavailable for play on the dates fixed the next succeeding day must be utilised.

All matches will be the best of three sets, except the final which shall be the best of five sets.

The Hong Doubles championships have a sixteen year history. The winning Hongs and players since its inception in 1905, follow:

1905 Messrs. Butterfield & Swire (E. F. Mackay and F. N. Matthews.)

1906 Messrs. The Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation (J. A. Maclean and H. P. Dudley.)

Nerves In Good Shape? Georges Proves It

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

YALE IN CHINA, CHANGSHA, GIVES ITS FIRST DEGREES

Impressive Ceremony At Graduation Exercises; Rev. Gage Presides

Changsha, June 24.—The first conferring of degrees at Yale in China, Changsha, occurred on Saturday, June 18. The College Chapel was filled with an unusually large company of representative Chinese and foreign guests, many of them friends who had watched the growth of the Yale in China movement from its beginning in 1906.

The presiding officer was Rev. Brownell Gage, Chairman of the Governing Board and Dean of the College of Arts. When the hour for the Commencement exercises was reached, a long procession was formed on the medical campus, including the officers and distinguished guests and the whole student body.

As the line filled across the Maloo to the academic campus those who stood by were impressed with the significance of the occasion. Only eighteen years ago, Hunan was just beginning to let foreigners in. Today her leading citizens were in cordial relations with the faculty of an American group of doctors and teachers. The civil governor of Hunan, H.E. Chao Heng-ti, marched with Mr. Gage; next in line were Dr. Hume of the medical staff and Mr. Tseng Sung-chiao, provincial educational commissioner, followed by Messrs. Keller and Warren, and Mrs. Lingle, three of the missionaries who attended the first Hunan Mission Conference in 1903, when Thurston was invited to locate the Yale work here. In the line were Messrs. L. Giles and W. Adams, the British and American consuls respectively together with other members of the Changsha business and missionary communities and the members of the faculty. At the head of the line was Rev. E. D. Harvey, who acted as Marshal for the occasion, and who, with his long blue staff of office, controlled the entire movement of the line and supervised the carrying out of the entire program.

DIPLOMAS AWARDED

Certificates were awarded to 25 members of the graduating class of the Junior College. Following this came the significant award of degrees to those who had completed their collegiate work from 1917, but who had not yet received the actual diplomas conferring upon them the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The authority to grant these degrees was conveyed by Act of the Legislature of the State of Connecticut, passed in 1919. Twenty men, who had finished their work in years from 1917 onwards, thus became Bachelors of Arts.

After the awarding of the arts degrees, Mr. Gage, acting for the Governing Board and for the Trustees in America, conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine upon ten graduates of the Hunan-Yale College of Medicine. This college has been in existence since 1914, when the first students entered their premedical course.

STRIKING FEATURE

One striking feature of the Commencement program was the awarding of prizes by Miss Tseng Pao-sun, principal of the I Fang Girls' Collegiate School of Changsha. Miss Tsang acted on behalf of a committee that included American Consul, Mr Adams, and Rev. G.G. Warren of the Wesleyan Mission. Miss Tseng is the granddaughter of the famous Marquis Tseng, to whom allusion has been made above. The prizes were three in number, and were given to those students who should write and deliver in the best manner an English composition. Gold medals were awarded by Governor Chao to a member of the graduating class of the College of Arts for General Excellence in studies, and also to a member of the graduating class of the College of Medicine for general excellence as well as a second medal to the student who should prepare the best graduation thesis on some medical subject. Both of the latter medals were won by Chang Hsiao-chien, a native of Changsha.

take an opening through which he will shoot a decisive blow.

However, the fact that Dempsey's speed approximates that of Carpentier, and the American's rushing attack can hardly be avoided, there is reason for the belief that Dempsey will reach the Frenchman with heavy blows early in the contest.

If he weathers them it will be proof that he is a stronger man than Willard, Brennan, Fulton, Miske or Carl Morris.

HONORS FOR RICKARD

The banquet in honor of Tex Rickard at the Hotel Commodore tonight, which is planned by the American People's League, an organisation opposed to blue law government, is a deserved tribute to the ablest promoter of pugilism in the world. Frederick Lawrence is chairman of the league, and on the committee of plans and activities are Admiral Sims, Governor Edwards of New Jersey, Herman A. Metz, David Belasco, Charles H. Ebbets, Rev. Joseph Silverman and many other prominent citizens.

Henry Birrell, secretary of the league, in announcing the event, said:

"The league is giving Rickard the banquet not alone as a testimonial to his sportsmanship, which has inspired him to raise boxing to a high standard, but also as the league's initial move in a crusade to cleanse all American sports of dishonorable conduct and degrading features.

"The league's task will be to see that every sport and athletic pastime, whether amateur or professional, receives a thorough scouring and thereafter be kept clean. Tex Rickard, always known for his strict insistence on clean boxing, has pledged his assistance to the league, as likewise has Jack Curley, the wrestling promoter.

"It is intended to set up high standards for all sports, and see that those standards are respected, and give the protection of the league against blue lawism to these leaders of the amateur and professional sporting world who are striving to put American athletic pastimes on the highest possible plane."

AFTER GALLIPOLI

A War Veteran's Experience

After three years military service, and exposure amid the heat and horrors of Gallipoli's inhospitable shores, Mr. J. W. Mills returned to England sadly weakened in constitution and general health. Interviewed recently at his residence, 5 Deepdale Lane, Upper Gornal, near Dudley, Mr. Mills said:—

"Soon after getting back to civilian life I began to feel the effects of my war experience, and everything became a trouble and a burden to me. I was fatigued by the walk to business in the morning, and when I reached there I was fit for nothing. I struggled through the day as best I could, but all the time my head, eyes and back ached.

"When I got home I was absolutely 'done up.' My head trouble, and the great difficulty I experienced in concentrating on anything made life a burden. I derived no benefit from the medicine which the doctor provided nor from other remedies which I tried.

"Then I read an article in the newspaper about Dr. Williams' pink pills, and resolved to give them a trial. The first few pills I took arrested the development of the physical and mental inertia from which I was suffering, and I soon knew that I was on the right track.

"I persevered with the pills, and my physical weariness was soon dispelled. It is no longer a fatigue to work, in fact I feel that I have taken on a fresh lease of life, and am like a new man. I sleep better, eat much more heartily, and in every way feel stronger. I am quite sure that I owe everything to Dr. Williams' pink pills."

If you are a sufferer from any of the symptoms described above, do not delay, but begin a course of Dr. Williams' pink pills. Of dealers, or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai $1.50 per bottle, $8 for six bottles, post free. For men, and women too.

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July 1921 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1921.

6°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A chequee representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

8°—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 31st May 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
38877. Secretary.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Exchange Quotations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 29, 1921

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 59 cents and the London-New York cross rate to 376.

The official quotations here today were unchanged from yesterday with the exception of the Yen rate which was dropped to 73½ and the Hongkong rate raised to 76.

The market was steady throughout the day, business in Sterling being done at 3/6½ for June, 3/6⅝ for July and 3/6¼ for August and in Gold Dollars at about 66½ for near and forward.

The market was very quiet throughout the day as in view of the near approach of the half year settlement banks were unwilling to operate.

India is reported to have bought silver in London yesterday and China to have sold.

New York reports the market there as being firm with buyers at the quoted price.

The silver markets at present are, therefore, steady.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending yesterday:

Exchange.—The London price of silver at 35⅛d. is ½d. lower than last week. Money has been in demand for the "end of the month." Interbank settlement and premiums of 1d. to 1¼d. over official quotations for T/T on London have been offering. Today the market appears easier and we close with sellers at 3/6¼d. and G.$66¼. Exports still remain dull and the easy tone in our exchange market looks like developing.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 32,570,000, a decline of Tls. 660,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $27,330,000, an increase of $320,000.

Estimated value in Taels Tls. 52,247,000 as against Tls. 50,690,000 held at this time last year.

Hongkong Share Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, June 24:

We have had an active market during the past week and prices generally have been well maintained, with a considerable rise in some stocks.

Shanghai market has eased off a little owing no doubt to the approaching settlement.

Rubber remains neglected.

Hongkong Banks.—Have come to business at $740 ex rights. New shares have been done at $145 premium, and more could probably be placed at this price.

Cantons.—Are quiet at $400.

Unions.—Are steady at $240.

Hongkong Fires.—Are steady at $315.

Hongkong Docks.—Rose to a buying rate of $213 at which price a good many shares changed hands.

Deferred Indos.—Are steady at $275 London Register ex dividend, and $270 Hongkong Register ex dividend.

China Sugars.—Have again been the medium of considerable business and close with buyers at $200, at which price a good many shares have changed hands.

Cements.—Are quieter and close with buyers at $17.20.

Hongkong Lands.—Have been the medium of a large business at rising rates and close with buyers at $203 for cash and $206 for August.

Shanghai Docks.—On receipt of the news of the sale of some property for Tls. 800,000 rose to Tls. 160 for cash, but have since declined slightly and close with buyers at Tls. 157.

Hongkong Electrics:—After coming to business at $24½ eased off to $23¼ at which price there are buyers.

Humphreys.—Are wanted at $10.80 and more would probably be paid.

Shell Transports.—Have sellers at 115/-.

Hankow Merchants And Students Agree On Jap Boycott

(Staff Correspondence)

Hankow, June 23.—Chinese merchants dealing in Japanese imported goods and the East Szechuen Students Federation have at last come to terms regarding the boycott of Japanese goods. Several weeks were spent in discussions as to means of disposing of Japanese goods arrested by the Students Federation.

It has been mutually agreed that after four weeks any merchant shall be responsible for the Japanese goods he may import into Szechuen ports. Partial confiscation and destruction by flames are the agreed ways of punishment to importers of Japanese goods after the period.

A Native Goods Promotion Society has been organised by the Students Federation and the Merchants Union Guild with a view to stimulating native industries and trade. The same organisation will likewise take the responsibility of enforcing a lasting boycott against Japanese goods.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 28.—Crown Prince Hirohito today visited the Sorbonne where the Rector of the Paris Academy announced that a Welfare Committee for Japanese students would shortly be established under the auspices of the University of Paris. Prince Hirohito thanked the Rector for the extremely friendly welcome given to Japanese students in French schools and colleges.

MARRIAGE

AT the Union Church, Shanghai, on Tuesday, June 28th, 1921, by the Rev. D. MacGillivray, D. D., in the presence of Mr. J. T. Wright, American Vice-Consul, The Rev. E. F. Tatum, of Yangchow to Miss Ellen E. Mona Hall of West China.

The Civic League Takes A Hand

WE extend our greetings and congratulations to the Committee of the Shanghai Civic League. It has now come out in the open as the subjoined letter will show, in favor of wider publicity and discussion in local governmental affairs, a matter which THE CHINA PRESS has been urging upon the attention of the ratepayers for years. With the rice crisis at its worst stage and the Public Garden alterations held up pending the calling of a public meeting, the urgency of the plea for the abandonment of secret municipal government must be apparent to all. Herewith the letter:

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: The undersigned, members of the Committee of the Shanghai Civic League, will much appreciate the publicity of your columns for a definite statement of our attitude towards the Bund Improvement Scheme as it affects the Public Garden. This attitude, we believe, reflects the views generally held by the members of the League and those who signed the Petition to the Council to delay the proposed encroachment on the Garden and is well expressed in our letter to the Chairman of the Council of the 27th inst. forwarding a further 123 signatures to the Petition in which we stated as follows:

"We hold that the Council was not justified in tampering with the property of the Ratepayers, specially dedicated for their use as a Public Garden, on the mandate of less than 100 ratepayers, the majority of whom were almost certainly unaware that they were authorising them to do so. Had the Budget been issued in time for a more careful analysis of its contents, and had there been an opportunity for a public discussion of the matter before the Ratepayers' Meeting, it is quite possible that with a better knowledge of the technical considerations involved, public opinion would have endorsed the Council's recommendation, and there would have been no occasion for the criticism which has subsequently developed. This incident confirms the Committee in their view that it would be in the best interests of both Council and Ratepayers if the latter were taken more fully into the confidence of the former before committing the Ratepayers to a course of action on debatable issues of unusual importance to them.

"As matters now stand, we respectfully suggest that before proceeding with the work as it affects the Public Garden, this part of the Bund Improvement Scheme should be endorsed by a majority of ratepayers at a meeting called by the Council specially to discuss the matter. On a clear issue, if an endorsement of the Council's proposal is obtained, it will meet, we think, all reasonable criticism."

We believe that the demand for greater publicity when important administrative measures are being considered is increasingly insistent and cannot be indefinitely denied. The Ratepayers of Shanghai are certainly quite as capable of expressing a collective opinion on Civic affairs as any community elsewhere but heretofore the opportunity for doing so has been greatly restricted and the necessity for it has not been so widely recognised as it is today. It is to facilitate the expression of public opinion on Civic affairs that the Association of Ratepayers has been formed known as the Civic League. Already it represents a no inconsiderable and constantly increasing body of effective public opinion and its members are probably unanimous in endorsing the demand for greater publicity.

The Policy of the League is to encourage rational unprejudiced and constructive criticism tending to ensure efficiency of administration with due regard to reasonable economy. Its objects as stated in its constitution are as follows:

(1) To promote interest in, and study and discussion of municipal matters of importance to residents in Shanghai.

(2) To provide an avenue through which may be expressed the views and needs of those who by virtue of their interest in the affairs of the Settlement have a legitimate claim to their expression.

(3) To secure collective action, when such is felt to be desirable, in the interests of public welfare.

What Happened At Paris

Col. House's Version

What Really Happened At Paris. The Story of the Peace Conference, 1918-1919. By American Delegates. Edited by Edward Mandell House and Charles Seymour. New York: Scribner's, 1921.

Most of those who have written books about the Paris Peace Conference have seemed fated to make a misnomer out of their title. For example, Dr. E. J. Dillon called his volume "The Inside Story of the Peace Conference." But Professor Seymour asserts that his work was "based upon gossip and replete with errors of fact." A great deal of the Dillon material was thus drawn from "inside" his own imagination. Similar criticisms have been made of the more notorious book by Mr. Keynes. Professor Haskins declares that "he could not speak as an authority on his own observation; and the result was a highly imaginative and, in some respects, a distorted picture of men and motives." The official interpreter of the conference, Captain Mantoux, states that Mr. Keynes never attended a regular session of the Council of Four; so that, Professor Haskins infers, "the confused and curious gathering which Keynes described in the large drawing room of the President's house would appear to have been so rendered by the presence of a large number of economic advisers like himself, specially called in for the occasion." It is needless to refer to other conflicting accounts of the Paris Conference. Among them, as Professor Day writes, "the reader must make his choice according to his taste in fiction." The rival products are "valueless for an understanding of what actually happened at Paris."

With such warnings before their eyes, it seems a pity that the editors of this volume did not select a happier title. When the unsuspecting reader takes up "What Really Happened at Paris," he will naturally expect to be let into the very arcana of the conference. Here, he will think, is at last to be given the precise truth about the meetings of the Ten, the Five and the Big Four. He will count upon getting a lifelike picture of the debates and exchanges, the arguments and the retorts that passed between Clemenceau and Lloyd George, Orlando and Wilson. But in fact it is quite another tale that is told in these pages. It is a tale of extraordinary interest and importance. But it does not penetrate to the secrets of the inner councils at Paris. The testimony borne here is mainly by the experts attached to the American delegation. They had an indispensable work to do. It was their task to assemble in advance the most exact information that could be obtained in regard to all the complex questions coming before the conference for settlement. This they did in a masterly way. They were of the greatest use to President Wilson. Yet in the nature of the case it was but occasionally and fleetingly that they were admitted to the intimacies of his confidence. Thus, when all is said, the accounts which they give in these chapters have more to do with the fringes of the Peace Conference than with its central and confidential discussions and decisions. It would have been fortunate, therefore, if a less ambitious and more descriptive title had been given to this volume by the American experts, which, even as it is, stands out as the most informative and authoritative work yet printed about the Peace Conference of 1918-19.

As is known, so early as 1917 President Wilson began preparing, even while in the thick of war, for the peace which was to follow. At once there appeared a defect in the American Diplomatic Service, as compared with that of most European nations. We had not developed either in the State Department or in our Foreign Embassies the system of expert knowledge and guidance of which European Governments were immediately able to avail themselves in an emergency. Consequently with us the work had to be begun from the foundation. There was slowly, and quietly gathered together a body of special students and professors who came to be known as "the Inquiry." The phrase sufficiently indicates the nature of their undertaking. They were to amass for the use of the delegates at Paris precise and comprehensive information touching upon national boundaries, both historic and military, natural resources, population, races, industries, commerce—in a word, everything bearing upon that great rearrangment of Europe which everybody foresaw as a necessary consequence of the war. There is no doubt that this work was splendidly done. From many sources comes evidence that the American experts at Paris were thoroughly equipped and highly appreciated. In this connection Professor Seymour records one incident:

"The commission had agreed to recommend a certain frontier, but on studying this frontier the Americans decided that a change should be made. At the next meeting the American delegate asked permission to introduce an amendment to the boundary line, stating that he had with him the statistics which would, in his opinion, justify the change. A foreign delegates said at one: 'I suggest that we accept the amendment without asking for the evidence. Hitherto the facts presented by the American have been irrefutable; it would be a waste of time to consider them.'"

While this competence of the American specialists at Paris is as well established as it is gratifying, the fact remains that there often appears to have been a want of the fullest co-ordination of their activities. As one of them says, they were "naturally at a great disadvantage in their lack of diplomatic experience." They were like a new tool in unaccustomed hands. The British and French services had been long familiar with the class and kind of assistants upon whom they had to call at Paris. These men could be swiftly mobilised for any given crisis. Our own seem sometimes to have been slow in starting. Moreover, the members of the delegation itself who had to make use of the experts appear often to have been somewhat awkward and dilatory in bringing up these reserves. The clear moral of the whole is that such a work as was undertaken and, on the whole, carried through to successfully by our American scholars cannot be improvised without betraying certain defects and drawbacks. In spite of these, the achievement of these American expert advisers at Paris was indisputably of a very high order.

Their first reports, as given in this volume, were made in the form of lectures at Philadelphia in the Autumn of 1920. Those lectures make up the substance of this book. Not the least valuable part of it consists of the Appendix of about sixty pages. Here are printed the stenographic notes of questions asked and answers given after the lectures in the Academy of Music at Philadelphia. These questions are often most direct and pointed, as well as intelligent, and the answers are entirely frank. For example the inquiry was made of Mr Isaiah Bowman, "Was there not a time when it looked as if the Peace Conference might break up?" The reply was that there were a number of such occasions. Mr. Bowman proceeded to specify:

On a certain day three of us were asked to call at the President's house, and on the following morning at 11 o'clock we arrived. President Wilson welcomed us in a very cordial manner. I cannot understand how people get the idea that he is cold. He does not make a fuss over you, but when you leave him you feel that you have met a very courteous gentleman. You have the feeling that he is frank and altogether sincere. He remarked: "Gentlemen, I am in trouble and I have sent for you to help me out. The matter is this: the French want the whole left bank of the Rhine. I told M. Clemenceau that I could not consent to such a solution of the problem. He became very much excited and then demanded ownership of the Sarre Basin. I told him I would not agree to that either, because it would mean giving 300,000 Germans to France." Whereupon President Wilson further said: "I do not know whether I shall see M. Clemenceau again. I do not know whether he will return to the meeting this afternoon. In fact, I do not know whether the Peace Conference will continue. M. Clemenceau called me a pro-German and abruptly left the room. I want you to assist me in working out a solution true to the principles we are standing for and to do justice to France, and I can only hope that France will ultimately accept a reasonable solution. I want to be fair to M. Clemenceau and to France, but I cannot consent to the outright transference to France

THE CHOICE

Prologue:

PROLOGUE

Age: My son you come to me to seek advice.
First tell me what thy thoughts are that I may Know the material upon which I work.
Youth: I am a citizen of the world.
I cultivate the senses. Give them play.
And free indulgence do I give to every kind
Of pleasure that my body demands.
Age: Thou art a citizen of the world
Would'st e'en enjoy advantages of life
But not incur its obligations.
And, in this quest from city to city
Thou hast wandered,
Culling the flower of pleasure wheree're thou wentest.
But list!
No man can incur the duties of a citizen
And yet maintain his personal liberties.
Mankind into two classes is split up.
For some are masters—aye! and some are slaves.
And some produce, and some advantage gain.
But! He who would be master must prepare
To struggle.
But Youth remember this: Thy vaunted pleasure
Is but a foul deceiver tempting man
To enter Paradise with stately pomp
To find it but a stagnant swamp.
Oh Youth! I prithee list unto my words.
Satiety, disgust and weariness,
These are the fruits that from life must grow
That to the joys of sense is dedicated.
Oh, Youth, put far from thee the tyranny
Of appetite. Remember this: "You miss
The lower kind of happiness, and too.
The higher kinds of Discipline's delights."

THE ALLEGORY

Youth.
Virtue.
Vice.
Scene and Time: As in Prologue.

(Youth is lost in a daydream such as haunts the tender mind of youth. He has just reached the threshold of manhood, and the time has come for him to put away childish things, and choose a path in Life.)

Youth: A still small voice I hear, it is the cry
Yet strange, of prompting, clamorous passion.
But still I hear as from some purer region
The callings of a Nature God-like, true.
(He sees approaching him two women, both tall beyond the common stature, but in all else different from each other.)
In one I see a maiden majesty,
Clad in a robe of pure and spotless white;
Her eyes are as the evening star, sweet, yet severe;
And on her brow the light of purity shines;
The Spirit of Goodness waits upon her steps.
The other, rounder, fuller in her form,
And Nature hath from Art borrowed
Help to enhance her figure and her face.
And clothed in garments of a gauzy texture,
She walks with mincing and affecting gait,
Gazing about her with a wanton stare;
And now she pauses, looks at her own shadow,
Glances round to see those who would observe her.
Vice: Oh Youth I do perceive thou dost debate
What path to choose.
If thou wilt follow me a way I'll show
That is both smooth and easy. And thou shalt
Feast on delight and hardships never know.
There is a garden of bliss, where never comes
The sound of wars or struggles.
'Tis a Paradise of the senses
Where the air breathes softly—perfumed with sweet odours,
And vocal in its melody,
There dwell the ministers of pleasure,
Who will wait upon thee both day and night,
Spreading a table with delicious fare,
And guarding thee from harsh unlovely things,
Lulling thee to sleep on bed of down.
Come then with me, and thou shalt never look
Upon the haggard and unkempt face of want;
Thy hand shall ne'er be soiled with labor's mark,
Nor shall thy spirit e'er be soiled with care.
What others sow, oh Youth, thou shalt reap,
And nothing need'st thee e'er deny thyself.
I know how to provide the good things to those
Who are of my company.
Youth: And lady, by what name shall I call thee?
Vice: My friends, they call me Happiness—my foes
And those that hate me call me vice.
(Vice withdraws as Virtue approaches and addresses the youth in accents low and sweet.)
Virtue: Youth, I have watched thee from thy early days,
I know thy lineage and thy growth of spirit.
What I have seen in thee gives me hope
That thou will be a man of mighty deeds,
A doer and a thinker, honored and revered of men.
Oh, let me not deceive thee by scant praise
But tell thee simple truth of man's appointed lot.
There is nothing good and nothing fair
That is won without labor and great effort.
If thou would'st have thy friends to love thee
Thou must toil to do them good.
If thou desirest by thy country to be honored
Thou must labor with thy hand and mind.
Go, stand upon some great commanding height
And see the Earth laughing with her harvest,
See the grapes purpling with their vintage
The orchards, olive trees bowing with their loads.
Or see the conqueror marching in his triumph
Into his city crowned with victory,
Enriched with spoils of foes—
See the athlete speeding to his goal,
His mighty limbs in sunlight gleaming,
His ears filled with the roar of thousand voices.
These are the costly fruit of patient toil.
Vice. See Youth how long and hard is the road
That leads to happiness, as Virtue describes it.
Let me bring thee thither by a shorter way.
Virtue. Vice, Thou art like a wanton child,
Ever in pursuit of bubbles
That ever elude thee.
Vice, thou are scorned by all good men.
The fairest of all sounds, the applause of thine own conscience
Thou hast never heard.
The fruit of thine own good deeds—the loveliest of sights—
Hath never cheered thine eyes.
But Vice, soon thou shalt have a rude awakening
Thou shalt be left alone, and amid the ruins of thy life
Thou shalt be haunted by the ghost of thy murdered self.
Youth: As I pass on from youth to age
Beloved by friends and honored by the father and,
So then I know that virtue's own reward
Goes not unregarded.
When the last summons comes and takes us to our rest
We are not forgotten.
We enter into life without end that our good deeds have won.
We still live in the hearts of Good Men.
(Vice disappears in shame. Virtue takes the hand of Youth and leads him into the Country of Life Everlasting.)

JADE AT COURT

In the time of the Chow emperors (1122-255 B. C.) a very elaborate system of Court regulations existed governing all ceremonies connected with State or religious matters, which were expressed in a series of Jade tablets denoting power and rank.

In charge of all such precious objects were various officials whose task it was to see to the designing, manufacture, ceremonial use, and the care of them, and many of these Jade objects were handed down from generation to generation.

The forms, sizes, colours, and decorations of these Jade tablets differed according to their use.

"Jui" is the general name for those conferred by the emperor on the five classes of feudal princes as a mark of investiture and insignia of rank, and held by them in their hands when they had audience with the emperor.

"Green Jade" is the name by which we designate a High Grade brand of Cigarettes made of specially selected Virginia leaf.

What Happened At Paris

of 300,000 Germans." A solution was finally found—the one that stands in the treaty today.

An occurrence less tense and critical fell at another time. It was the practice to invite the military and naval representatives to meet with the Supreme War Council when certain matters were under consideration. After these gentlemen had given their opinion they were asked to withdraw. On one occasion when the western boundary of Poland was under discussion and when various Generals were notified that they might retire from the room, Marshal Foch entirely disregarded the suggestion, acting as if he had not heard it. Clemenceau repeated it, but Foch refused to leave:

Finally Clemenceau, having in mind that Foch did not understand English, rose from his chair, went over to President Wilson, and said, "I don't know what to do: he won't leave," and then, perplexed, sat down. Presently he again rose and went over to President Wilson, and Premier Lloyd George, saying that as an agreement had been made that the Generals were to be there only if there was something in dispute which required their presence, and as Foch did not appear to pay any attention, he was at a loss to know what next to do without offending him. Finally Balfour, who always could be depended upon in such emergencies, remarked: "I suggest we have tea." Tea was served, but still Foch stayed on. At last Clemenceau spoke to Foch. I don't know what it was but, it was effective, and Marshal Foch got up abruptly and left the room.

Going back to the body of the book, one of the most striking chapters is that by Professor Day of Yale on "The Atmosphere and Organisation of the Peace Conference." Here is given the most lucid account yet printed of what may be called the evolution of the Peace Conference between its first meeting and its last. It began as a vast and unwieldy assemblage, something like a spectacle. It was as a gigantic tribunal before which suppliants from the ends of the earth came to make their plea. The process was terribly time-consuming. "When Dmowski related the claims of Poland he began at 11 o'clock in the morning and in the fourteenth century, and could reach the year 1919 and pressing problems of the moment only as late at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Benes followed immediately with the counter-claims of Czechoslovakia, and, if I remember correctly, he began a century earlier and finished an hour later." This sort of thihg could not go on. The conference was forced to revolve itself into smaller bodies, if any real work was to be done. So we got first the Council of Ten, and finally the Four who met in secret and really got down to business. It is clear now that in no other way could affairs have been made to march. If all the intricate and delicate questions involved in the war settlement had been fully debated in public, before the entire conference, it is morally certain that nothing would have been settled to all, and that a half dozen new wars would have been provoked. It is interesting, writes Professor Day, to "speculate on the concealed activities of the Council of Four, and particularly on the interplay of the personalities of its members." The general opinion was that Orlando played a comparatively minor part. No one of the remaining three was actually and continuously dominant. "If one could have dominated by a dauntless will, it would certainly have been Clemenceau. If shrewd management and ingenuity in devising practicable plans had been enough to assure control, the leadership would have gone to Lloyd George. If ability to define and defend the aims to be kept in view had been the essential quality, no one in this respect matched the American President. No one of the three had, in fact, his own way."

Referring to the hearings which took place in the room of the French Foreign Minister, Pichon, Professor Seymour draws a little picture which may be set beside the highly colored canvas of Mr. Keynes:

In the center, behind the empire desk, sat Clemenceau, squat, stolid, gray of face, his hands clasped quietly, covered by the eternal gray gloves, on his countenance an expression of bored tolerance. In his cynical wisdom he had never believed that the end of the war would bring the millennium: these nationalistic quarrels seemed to him entirely natural, even though inconvenient. His arid humor, his biting sarcasm displayed in an infrequent question, contrasted with the patient earnestness of President Wilson, who sat upon his right, and to whom, it is not uninteresting to note, the claimants appealed by their manner, if not in form, as the man of justice upon whom their hopes rested. Next to the Americans sat Lloyd George and Balfour, perfect contrast. The British Prime Minister, consumed with an electric energy, always on the edge of his chair, questioning and interrupting; Balfour, with his long legs outstretched, his head on the back of his chair, eyes not infrequently closed, philosophic in his attitude, completely proof against those sudden gusts of enthusiasm which sometimes assailed his chief. Next, on the right were the Japanese, with features immobile as the Sphinx, enigmatic as the "Mona Lisa." Facing Clemenceau sat the Italians: Orlando, florid in manner, eloquent in speech; Sonnino, with eagle features, powerful nose, and jaw set like a vise. In the corners were the secretaries. Behind the principals sat the attaches and experts, with their maps and tables of statistics, whispering corrections of the ex-parte statements which the delegates of the nationalities presented.

For the wealth of material collected in this volume, it is certain to be valued and long consulted. No such light on the difficulties presented at Paris has been thrown by any previous publication. One further point only can be touched in closing. It relates to the attitude of President Wilson toward the men whose labors he had prompted. The common report has been that he too often stood arrogantly aloof from them leaving them in ignorance of what he was doing and what he wanted, and failing to take advantage of the great aid which they stood ready to render him. But the testimony of the experts themselves shows that this is nothing but a fairy story. The question was bluntly put to Professor Haskins whether he and the other American experts had not been "ignored" by the President. His answer was that, on the contrary, the President had freely consulted them. "So far as I could see, the President was anxious to have the exact facts before him in every situation." Professor Johnson of Columbia who, by the way, writes a fascinating chapter on "Fiume and the Adriatic Problem," declares that "the President kept in constant touch with the experts." He adds:

I can assure you that there was sent to him a voluminous quantity of material, and I want to say that when we had personal discussions with him upon the question it immediately became apparent that he had studied these memoranda most carefully. It is only fair to say that of the details and intricacies of this most difficult problem the President possessed a most astonishing command.

On this subject a very judicious and really conclusive opinion is given by Mr. Thomas W. Lamont. He admits that President Wilson at Paris did not have a "well organised secretarial staff. He did far too much of the work himself." This was not from egotism, but from a "lack of facility in knowing how to delegate work on a large scale." But on the main question Mr. Lamont asserts:

I never saw a man more ready and anxious to consult than he. He has been accused of having been desirous to gain credit for himself and to ignore others. I never saw a man more considerate of those of his coadjutors who were working immediately with him, nor a man more ready to give them credit with the other chiefs of state. Again and again would he say to Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau: "My right. You will have to argue with him if you want to get me to change such and such, and I believe he is expert here, Mr. So-and-So, tells me my opinions."

TEXACO

TEXACO THUBAN COMPOUND
a liquid lubricant for—
Differentials, Worm Drives, and Transmissions of Automobiles

Texaco Thuban Compound is a heavy, mineral lubricant—not a grease.

It gives the best obtainable lubricating service because it sticks to gear teeth. No grade, speed, nor any other adverse condition will make "Thuban" sling off. It forms a protective cushion of oil which prevents metal contact when the gears mesh, thus reducing friction and increasing power. Notice the decrease of noise when "Thuban" is used. There is no clash and grind when the gears shift.

A very little "Thuban" goes a long way. You need only enough to bathe the gear teeth as they revolve in the power housing. This is because of its adhesive power which keeps a film on them at all times. "Thuban" is a real economy because you must use it sparingly for best results.

KEEN BUSINESS MEN Study their Appearance

All men know the value of a well-groomed, youthful appearance. Baldness, even in a young man, suggests neglect, and that the most useful years are past.

Baldness, or thin hair, suggests lessened vitality, lost energy, lack of reserve strength. Don't look like this. Restore your hair to its natural growth and vigor by using 'GERMOL.' It is a sound investment.

Dandruff is a common cause of falling, lifeless hair. 'GERMOL' removes dandruff in three days.

Don't neglect these early indications of baldness—Dandruff, Falling Hair, Scalp Irritation. Get a bottle of 'GERMOL' to-day and commence treatment.

All Chemists sell 'GERMOL'

Evicted Tenants Are Reinstated By Court's Order

The tenants of fifteen shops on Avenue Road who were incontinently ejected when the places were sealed up on Mixed Court orders Tuesday afternoon found cause for rejoicing yesterday when the Court rescinded the sealing order.

When the tenants were dispossessed, on four hours' notice, and began piling their effects in the road, foreigners interested themselves in the matter and it was found that the block of shops was being closed as a result of a civil action brought against the Chinese owner by Mr. H. B. Clough. The tenants, who had nothing to do with the case, had all paid their rent and had no means of securing other accommodations in the time allowed them. British Assessor Blackburn was communicated with and ordered Tuesday evening that the seals be broken and the people be allowed to re-enter.

Yesterday morning one shopkeeper appeared in court on the charge of interfering with the police officer sent to carry out the sealing orders. The defendant denied any intent of illegal interference and said that he had only remonstrated because of the shortness of the notice given. The Magistrate commented that the property in question contained the possessions of many families, which did not have sufficient time to remove. The court was now in possession of the facts, however and the premises should be reopened. In view of the defendant's unfamiliarity with the closing regulation, the Magistrate said, the court would deal leniently with him on the interference charge, fining him $5.

Later Mr. L. K. Kentwell, counsel for Mr. Clough, appeared and applied that the tenants be allowed to resume occupation and that the rents be ordered paid into court. He stated that the plaintiff in the civil case had no wish to cause hardship to the tenants and counsel offered to stand responsible for the collections. The application was granted.
